[illegible] good [illegible]

as the word of God [illegible] I like [illegible] to illustrate [illegible] keep open [illegible] there is no [illegible] preach [illegible] town [illegible] this work [illegible] The Young M[illegible] ing about [illegible] really, that [illegible] man like [illegible] work of the Y M [illegible] I pro[illegible] the United States [illegible] of many [illegible] heard [illegible] secretary [illegible] men that [illegible] influence [illegible] heard what [illegible] work of [illegible] of your [illegible] standing [illegible] was the secretary [illegible]

Mr Wanamaker [illegible] incidents which [illegible] tary [illegible] accomplished [illegible] of the large Y M C A [illegible] which was now [illegible] various departments [illegible] posed [illegible] sation over the [illegible] ment men [illegible] that the people of [illegible] anniversary [illegible] their opinion of Y M C A [illegible] those were [illegible] who had been a [illegible] forty years Mr [illegible] pressed the greatest [illegible] nelius Vanderbilt [illegible] recognizing the [illegible] had built an [illegible] ing for the [illegible] other [illegible] abroad who were [illegible]

Continuing Mr W[illegible] Y M C A has always [illegible] finances, and I am greatly [illegible] work you have done [illegible] Leland Stanford's farm [illegible] I visited the other day [illegible] for which he refused $1[illegible] have had 1700 [illegible] You are in a [illegible] people come from the East [illegible] and return with [illegible] much better than I [illegible] so near to Philadelphia [illegible] become known that [illegible] day people can come here from the East [illegible] will have many of them [illegible] but many of them will [illegible] And [illegible] become known that you have [illegible] good churches and an active Y M C A., the mothers will tell the [illegible] instead of going back Now $1000 [illegible] $2,700 was wasted for rent You ought to have a building of your own and some [illegible] ought to give it to you I have [illegible] stables in Colorado Springs which [illegible] make good Y M C A rooms [illegible] you have spent $1000 for salaries You could not get a clerk to conduct your [illegible] for such a sum as this and if this is not going to be conducted as a business institution, let it go entirely

Continuing Mr. Wanamaker alluded to the growth of the great West and the necessity for having bright, clean young men to help in building it up "Why should [illegible] not trust the young men and give them means [illegible] [illegible] work? They give to it their love, time and little experience The capital is the [illegible] of their trust and we who are older should give them counsel and [illegible] [illegible]ment."

In conclusion Mr Wanamaker said [illegible] speak for the young men to-night to the business men I submit the question with confidence that you are going to do right and do well for your own sake and for your city [illegible] and that you Christian men [illegible] the [illegible] of the God that you honor [illegible] your pledges, that you will stand by the church and the branch of it represented by [illegible] Young Men's Christian association

Mr. Wanamaker's address was greeted with [illegible] and immediately thereafter an [illegible] not down on the programme occurred Mr. H G. Lunt stepped forward and on behalf of the letter carriers and postal clerks [illegible] Mr. Wanamaker with a handsome [illegible] He stated that the carriers were glad to present this slight token of [illegible] thanks for the new and [illegible] quarters which they now have and [illegible] and appreciation displayed by [illegible] general in their work Mr. Lunt [illegible] expressed the thanks of the [illegible] of the city for the present commo[illegible] the improved service and [illegible] excellence of the staff of [illegible] as well as the Postmaster Mr W[illegible]maker responded in a few [illegible] words speaking about the work of the postal clerks, of the faithful [illegible] and [illegible] of the arduous and [illegible] work of the railway mail clerks. This city, he said, was entitled to have its [illegible] as much as any larger city. He was glad they were pleased and gratified at the mark of appreciation shown him

Rev. Mr. Bell then made a few remarks, calling attention to the statement of finances which [illegible] on the programme and to [illegible] amount to be raised for the work of next year. He urged all to contribute liberally of their means to enable the work to go [illegible] forward

After the singing of a hymn Rev Dr Gray offered prayer and pronounced the benediction.

COLLBRAN REPLIES

The General Agent of the Midland Tells His Side.

[illegible] the following statement [illegible] given out by Mr H Collbran general [illegible] of the Santa Fe-Midland [illegible] general manager of the Colorado Midland [illegible] the controversy with the D [illegible] which [illegible] in the present rate [illegible]

To the Press

Every one recognizes the [illegible] that there are two sides [illegible] now that the Denver and R[illegible] company have put their case before the people, that a few facts should [illegible] the other side.

As an [illegible] was reached between [illegible] Rio Grande [illegible] rado Midland companies [illegible] diminishing an excessive [illegible] that was in excess [illegible] each company with [illegible]

This agreement which [illegible] through train in each direction [illegible] route (not including the [illegible] narrow gauge [illegible] such as the Denver and Rio [illegible] thought fit was established [illegible] trains for some considerable [illegible] Denver and Rio Grande [illegible] giving notice to the [illegible] Objections were entered by [illegible] Union Pacific and Colorado Midland [illegible] an exceedingly strong protest [illegible] the representatives of the Union Pacific [illegible] at that time [illegible] all [illegible]

Eight through trains are running daily between Denver and Grand Junction not including [illegible] on the narrow gauge route [illegible] D & R G, and four containing [illegible] The trains arrived at [illegible] Grand Junction within [illegible] Western trains at [illegible] Junction [illegible] The [illegible] of arrival at [illegible] departure [illegible]

[illegible] the Colorado Midland railway [illegible] the Aspen [illegible] where connects [illegible] the Denver and Rio Grande and [illegible] Pacific companies and [illegible] an important feeder to [illegible] at Leadville That com[illegible] however rejected the [illegible] of the Colorado Midland and refused to make any reduction [illegible] rates on laborers to be employed [illegible] grading and building the railway [illegible] that were to be laid down [illegible] consequently the promoters of the Colorado Midland railway decided that it would be better to enlarge their plans and build from Leadville to Colorado Springs where a connection was obtained with the A T & S F railway and a competing line created between Denver, Aspen and Glenwood Springs. Afterwards arrangements were made for an extension of the line to Grand Junction so that a new through route would be established between Denver and western Colorado and Utah and while the promoters of the Colorado Midland railway were [illegible] was claimed that a broad gauge [illegible] could not possibly be operated over the mountains at an altitude [illegible] the Colorado Midland railway was completed [illegible] yet the result demonstrated the wisdom of the promoters and the broad gauge line was completed and put in regular operation and [illegible] for the fact that the Colorado Midland railway built [illegible] it is safe to say that [illegible] railway in existence to-day between Denver and western Colorado and Grand Junction except a narrow gauge one

The opening of the Colorado Midland railway created a substantial reduction in the fares between Denver and western Colorado. Also in the rates on [illegible] coal and coke and other commodities and both companies have since acted in concert in making other reductions as circumstances would admit of or justify

ANOTHER CAMP KILLING

D C Underwood Shot by James Russell, and Will Die

Special to The Gazette

Cripple Creek, May 3.—D C Underwood [illegible] years of age, was fatally shot by James Russell on Prospect avenue about 8.30 this evening The bullet entered on the right side close to the nipple and ranged downward The doctors have made no attempt to locate the ball and say there is very little hope of saving the life of the unfortunate man Underwood has been boarding with the divorced wife of Russell for the past year and Russell has made [illegible] threats against the lives of both Underwood and Mrs. Russell. A few days ago Russell left camp for Pueblo returning to-day. This evening he went to the little house occupied by his former wife and made a noise on the outside which brought Underwood to the door With an oath he exclaimed, "I have you now, and drew a gun. Underwood grappled with him and as he did so Russell shot twice, one ball taking effect. The wounded man ran into the house to get his revolver Russell shot twice [illegible] the door at Mrs. Russell. One ball plowed a furrow through the second finger of her right hand and the other grazed the right temple. Underwood ran out the back door and fired six shots at his assailant and Russell emptied his revolver in return. None of these last shots took effect. Russell escaped in the darkness but there is no doubt but that he will be captured before morning as he is well known to the officers.

The Sugar King's Opinion.

Honolulu, April 26, via San Francisco, May 3. A factor not new, but more than ever important, has made its appearance in Hawaiian politics by the arrival of Claus Spreckels, the "Sugar King" on April 18. Spreckels's influence in the islands is very great His opinion on annexation [illegible] anti annexation has been eagerly sought. He has been charged with having [illegible] to bring about the revolt on Jan. 17 [illegible] in the interests of the sugar planters. Q[illegible] as to whether he favored a republic Mr Spreckels said "I have come down to investigate. While I have a link or two in the chain, my plan is not yet definitely [illegible] The labor question is the all important one and constitutes my only objection to annexation. Planters must have cheap labor and this must be Asiatic labor White [illegible] could not and Kanakas will not work in cane fields. The monarchy cannot be restored. If I could find a man of ability whom I could trust, I would favor a Republic. The thing is to find a man Give the United States a place at Pearl Harbor in fee simple, that is all they want. They could keep their ships there and protect us if we could not take care of ourselves."

The [illegible] Laws.

Denver, May 3.—Governor Waite to-day vetoed Senate Bill No. 54, providing for the payment of outstanding State warrants issued in payment for [illegible] and furniture for the Seventh General Assembly, also House Bill No. 372 and Senate Bill No. 465 both amending the insurance laws. House Bill No 173 for the payment of expenses of the Governor and staff at Chicago, and No 166 appropriating money for the State reservoir at Monument and Senate Bill No. 85, for the payment of damages to the Benedictine sisters at Canon City, and No. 385, requiring deposits from insurance companies, all became laws without his signature.

A Coal Combination.

Denver May 3.—Another twist has been quietly given on the Colorado coal combination and now the coal and coking business of the State is in the hands of four great companies. Yesterday at a late hour the business of the new People's Coal company and that of J J Thomas & Co were amalgamated.

The capital stock of the new organization is $400,000 and controls the following large mines in northern Colorado Northwestern, Baker, Garfield Nos. 1 and 2, McGregor, McK[illegible] and Stewart.

J. W O'Neil is president and J J Thomas general manager of the consolidation

This gives the coal combine, consisting of the Colorado Fuel company, Coal and Coke company, United Coal company and People's Coal company complete control of the trade in the State, there being aside from those the Ajax Allen & Bond, a few other small producing properties outside the union

The Bering Arbitration.

The Sunday Opening Question

Chicago, May [illegible] Sunday opening question [illegible] As far as the national co[illegible] it is probable that [illegible] the [illegible] tee this af[illegible] to take any action looking to the opening of the Exposition gates on Sunday finally disposes of the matter, but it [illegible] that there is a strong feeling a[illegible] the local directory th[illegible] use its discretion in [illegible] the agreement with the govern[illegible] consideration of receiving the appropriation of $2,500,000 they were to close the Fair on Sunday They assume that Congress by entering into the agreement recognized their right to deal with the question and claim that because the agreement has been violated by the withholding of part of the appropriation they are under no obligation to keep their part of the contract It now seems likely that no further formal action will be taken but that in the course of a few weeks the local directory will quietly authorize the admission on Sunday of ticket holders who may wander around the grounds and profit by the educational advantages of the big show without the noise and activity that will characterize the other days of the week

Mrs. Barnaby's Jewels.

Providence, R I, May 3.—Mrs. Josephine Barnaby, [illegible] Dr Graves at Denver is accused of poisoning was supposed to have taken $20,000 worth of diamonds and jewelry with her when she started on her journey west The jewelry was forwarded from Denver to the administrator here after Mrs Barnaby's death When the administrator attempted to sell the supposed jewels he was informed that the diamonds were paste and even the settings were base metal plates. One diamond necklace in the schedule is missing It is also learned that the two rooms where Mrs Barnaby's personal effects were stored have been ransacked and everything of value taken

A Water Famine in Mexico

Zacatecas, Mex, May 3.—The water famine in this city and along the line of the Mexican Central railroad in the States of Coahuila, Zacatecas and Chihuahua has become alarming and the traffic of the road on this and [illegible] northern division are seriously interfered with

Word reached here to-day that seven freight trains are tied up owing to a lack of water to supply the engines The situation in this city is growing worse daily and what water there is here comes from polluted wells [illegible] an epidemic of sickness. There is a total failure of crops but people [illegible] have no money with which to buy the corn here from [illegible] United States and sold by public boards of the city at [illegible] The same condition of affairs exists in [illegible] Luis Potosi and [illegible] of [illegible]

CLEVELAND'S WILL.

He is Determined to Repeal the Sherman Law.

SENATOR VEST'S POSITION

He is Inclined to Favor a Compromise Perhaps Free Coinage at a Ratio of 20 to 1 Other Senatorial Opinions

Washington, May [illegible] As a result of his New York and Chicago visit President Cleveland is thoroughly convinced that the business interests of the country demand the repeal of the Sherman silver purchasing act, and he is more than ever determined to bring about such action at the earliest date after the new Congress convenes

The President had a long talk with Senator Vest on the subject this morning when the latter called at the White House to look after certain appointments in Missouri During the conversation that ensued the President announced his firm belief that the Sherman act would be repealed by the next Congress Senator Vest differed from him and insisted that the silver men would certainly demand some sort of compromise

The President suggested that he would prefer a return to the Bland act rather than subject the country to further embarrassment under the existing law

Senator Vest said afterward that there was not the slightest foundation for the reports so widely published that he had changed his views on the silver question in accordance with the President's wishes in return for a few federal appointments He has not changed his views on the silver question, he says but he is not in favor of conducting the finances of the government for the sole benefit of the silver producing states. He suggests that the silver problem might be solved by increasing the present ratio of gold and silver from 16 to 1 to 20 to 1 in addition to providing for the free coinage of silver. This proposition will not be acceptable to the silver producing States, the Senator thinks, and perhaps Mr Bland may not sanction it, but there are a number of members of Congress who are believers in the free and unlimited coinage of silver who would favor such a proposition. By this means Senator Vest calculates the commercial value of the silver dollar would be increased.

The President is not inclined toward Mr Vest's reasoning, but declares the Sherman law ought to be repealed without inclining the party to free silver. In a [illegible] between the President and Senator Butler on this subject, the South Carolina Senator, in addition to [illegible] an in[illegible] of silver, [illegible] a compromise might be [illegible] silver [illegible] of the South [illegible] by carrying out the provisions of the national Democratic platform [illegible] to the tax on State banks [illegible] being [illegible] to bring [illegible] of the [illegible] in the nature of a compromise [illegible] to the people who are [illegible] for more money [illegible] are convinced [illegible] of silver or a [illegible] of the bank tax will afford [illegible]

[illegible] Faulkner of West Virginia, who is a free silver man is also in favor of [illegible] as a means of improving the commercial value of silver.

AN AMERICAN ORATOR.

No mistake was made when Mr. Carter was selected as one of the counsel for the United States in the Bering Sea arbitration, or when was intrusted to his [illegible] of the American side of the [illegible]. In a [illegible] which [illegible] forty hours, Mr. Carter [illegible] the American contention with remarkable force and logic, and at the close of his speech the president of the court, Baron Courcel, paid him an unusual compliment, saying, "I cannot refrain from thanking you, sir, for this magnificent [illegible], which has [illegible] by a view well worthy of this high court."

It has been somewhat the fashion with people and [illegible] who are accustomed to find nothing quite good enough for them in their own country to sneer at the claims advanced by the United States and at the diplomats and orators who have been appointed to defend them. There is no good ground for fault finding with one or the other. Whatever may be the result of the arbitration, the United States has made out a strong [illegible], and it has been admirably presented.

A ROYAL JEWEL

Spain is evidently determined not to give up Cuba without a struggle. It is announced that the [illegible] of the kingdom will be taxed to the utmost to suppress the revolution, though there still remains some doubt whether the utmost [illegible] of the kingdom will be sufficient for the purpose. Spain has the very best of [illegible], both practical and sentimental, for wishing to retain Cuba. In this Columbian year it is not likely to be forgotten that it was from Spain that the discoverer of America sailed and that it was to Spain that he bore back the earliest trophies of the New World. The start which that kingdom thus gained was well improved and her domain was extended by successive explorers and conquistadores from the Arkansas river on the north to Cape Horn on the south. Of all those mighty regions only Cuba remains with the little island of Porto Rico to the Spanish crown. It is a matter of pride as well as of pocketbook that the rich sugar and tobacco plantations of Cuba should remain subject to the Spanish governor general and the Spanish tax gatherers.

THE CHINESE ACT.

The Treasury department acted with wisdom when it decided to postpone the attempt to enforce the provisions of the Geary act, until after the decision of the Supreme Court as to its constitutionality. Under the provisions of the act all Chinamen in the United States after tomorrow would be required to produce a certificate or permit of residence in default of which they would be sent back to their Asiatic home. As very few of the Chinese have paid any attention to the law, the treasury officials saw themselves confronted with an almost impossible task and any attempt to enforce the provisions of the law would have been checked by the difficulty of finding room for the prisoners or transportation for them across the sea.

It is expected that a decision of the court will be reached by the 10th of the present month, and in the meantime the officials, even more than the Chinese, will hope that the decision of the court will be unfavorable to the law.

AN UNHAPPY LOT

The one great truth which is now being impressed on the mind of every Democrat who has any connection with public affairs is that "it is not as easy as it looks." During the lifetime of the late [illegible] administration it was a very easy matter for any "statesman" in the backwoods with a choice of [illegible]. If confidence to pick [illegible] in the administration of public [illegible] to [illegible] the voters where [illegible] to be made with ad [illegible], and it was a very simple matter to prove that under a Democratic administration the changes would be accomplished. A majority of the people of the United States were simple enough to believe their statements, and the Democrats are now trying, or perhaps it would be nearer the truth to say that they are attempting to try, to carry out their promises.

But the campaign orators above referred to, as well as the more eminent Democrats whom Mr. Cleveland has called to his aid, have already found the difference between doing a thing and looking on while it is being done by someone else. Their difficulties are increased by the singular fact that Mr. Cleveland's appointees are for a large part men who have not had practical training in the work which they are expected to do. Mr. Cleveland's strange determination not to reappoint the office holders of his first administration has certainly not contributed to the efficiency of the various departments.

The Republican party carried on the government successfully for thirty two years. It solved problems far more difficult than any with which the country is now confronted and it is entirely reasonable to suppose that if it had been continued in power it would have been equal to all emergencies.

The difficulties of the Democrats lie in their lack of acquaintance with the details of public business and also in their lack of any plan which is acceptable to the party as a whole. So far the government has practically been running with the momentum acquired under Republican rule but no one expects this condition to endure. With a probable deficit in the Treasury and the tariff and silver questions looming up for settlement next fall to say nothing of minor matters, the lot of the Democratic statesman is not a happy one.

MUNICIPAL RESPONSIBILITY

At the time of the great railroad riots several years ago, the legal principle was established that a county is responsible for damages arising within its limits from mob violence. The principle was not a new one, but the experience of Allegheny county, Penn., in which the city of Pittsburg is situated called general attention to the matter, and doubtless acted as a restraint upon the actions of mobs and as an encouragement to the efforts of sheriffs in other cases.

A similar principle is involved in the suits which have just been brought in consequence of the recent strike of the Santa Fe mechanics at Argentine, Kan. In this [illegible] the strikers brutally attacked non union workmen and subjected them to personal violence and harm. According to the Kansas statute, suit may be brought against the city for damages arising from the action of mobs within its limits.

Such a law is a just one. Every man is entitled to protection in pursuance of lawful pursuits, and there is none more lawful than that of earning his bread as he chooses. To secure this protection is the primary end of government, and a city or county is clearly in fault if it [illegible] not afford this. Every man who acts with a mob acts against the government of which he is a part, and while the city's responsibility does not usually involve an increase of taxes for those who act in mobs it is only fair that the government should be held responsible for an outrage which it was its duty to prevent. A country that has a free ballot has no use for mobs. That they arise is a disgrace to our boasted civilization, and anything that tends to suppress them is to be welcomed.

In accordance with the law passed at the last session of the Colorado Legislature, the names of all persons who were registered and who failed to vote at the recent city election, will be published in the papers, and if objection is not made to the County Commissioners, these names will be dropped from the registration list. The principal object of the law is to secure the removal from the list of all persons who have removed from the county, or have died. It is also hoped that the law may operate to increase the number of voters and to prevent to some extent the absenteeism which is a dangerous feature of modern politics. So far as the first purpose is concerned the method adopted seems a cumbersome and expensive one but if it attains the second object, it will be worth all that it will cost.

Ireland is not the only country in the world that wants Home Rule. Iceland the frozen island away up towards the north pole, has secured political privileges which are not unimportant. The new constitution will go into effect in August next and is a sort of birthday present having been granted by the Danish sovereign on the thousandth anniversary of the settlement of the island.

Dispatches from Dahomey announce the end of the war there and the surrender of the King to the French. According to the terms of the arrangement the King agrees to abdicate and the French will give him a residence and a pension. It is to be presumed that the army of the Amazons will hereafter be transferred to the ballet corps of the Boulevard theaters.

A Bouquet Spoiled His Chances.

Shortly after the inauguration of Mr. Cleveland in 1885 a young fellow came here from one of the western states and applied for a consulship. He was splendidly indorsed, and after an interview with the chief executive he thought sure he had a cinch on the place. He returned to his hotel in great spirits.

Days and weeks passed and nothing definite came from the White House.

Finally the young man concluded he would remind the president that he was anxious to hear from him. Should he send a [illegible]? No, that wouldn't do. The young man hit upon a novel idea. This was to send Mrs. Cleveland a floral offering. He went off to Freeman's and ordered a splendid bouquet, which he directed sent to the president's wife with his compliments.

Two days later [illegible] the young man's influence went up to the White House to ascertain what chances his constituent had for getting the [illegible].

[illegible] at once [illegible] Mr. Cleveland's [illegible] dismissed his case [illegible] two days ago when he received a present at his hands. It was a bouquet.—Washington News.

AN HOUR OF TRIUMPH

THE GREAT WORLD'S FAIR OPENED IN JACKSON PARK

A Memorable Scene Which Calls Up Memories of the Last Three Years—Tableaux in the History of Chicago's Mighty Effort—Success at Last.

WORLD'S FAIR, May 1.—[Special.]—Nothing like it was ever seen before. Neither Solomon nor Nero ever dreamed of so much magnificence. It was precisely at noon today that President Cleveland, standing in the midst of a multitude, pushed a little button no larger than his thumb. Instantly the electric current loosened the mighty forces of steam and electrical energy ever bottled in one spot, tore down the veil from a number of beautiful statues, started columns of water playing toward the sky from many fountains, floated in the breeze thousands of flags and streamers from as many tall staffs planted upon the roofs and towers of a score of palaces, set in motion acres on acres of the most intricate and wonderful machines man in his best century has invented and perfected, sparked into brilliancy more than a hundred thousand electric lamps, a modern defiance at noon time of the darkness of midnight.

Thus the World's Columbian exposition of 1893 was opened this day. As I sat near the president on this occasion—a moment which will survive vividly in the memory as long as one may live—my thoughts wandered in retrospective paths. All this splendor nominally in honor of that Columbus who four centuries ago landed on the low shores of Watling Island—his San Salvador—in the Bahamas. The people of that island are to-day suffering famine and pestilence. The only good fortune that has visited them in recent years was when an enterprising Chicago newspaper sent an expedition thither to erect with much expenditure of silver coin a monument on the very spot where Columbus' foot first touched the soil of the new world, that lucky and yet luckless Columbus, shortly afterward returned to Europe in chains. As this Columbian fair is opened his descendant, now loaded with wealth and honors, sits within ten feet of me.

Seven Grecian cities praised Homer dead
In which the living Homer begged his bread.

Who first suggested this form of celebrating the four hundredth anniversary of the discovery? Probably we shall never know. Claimants for the honor appear every day or so, the caveat of each newcomer carrying him farther back than the earliest date given by his most previous rival. There can be no doubt, however—and it is a fact worth clearing in this connection to behalf of the truth of history, that the man who first made the idea of a Columbian exposition known and talked about as a serious, practical proposition was Col. A. D. Anderson, of Washington, D. C. He interested the people of the capital, and [illegible] lent a hand, too. Apparently it was determined there was to be an exposition, and it was to be held in Washington under government auspices. They had the site selected, on the shores of the Potomac. Other plans were perfected. But clouds soon appeared in the horizon. The mayor of Chicago had called a meeting of citizens to discuss the proposition to hold an international exposition in this city. New York heard of it, and called a meeting, too. St. Louis not to be outdone in enterprise, nominated herself.

Then ensued one of the most interesting, spirited contests for supremacy ever seen in this or any other country. In fact, all history may be ransacked in vain for a parallel. It was a municipal tournament which brought out the energy, the characteristics, the good nature, the wit and the public spirit of all the rivals. Early it was seen that New York and Chicago were evenly matched. Washington and St. Louis were not factors. The east was pitted against the west. What a campaign it was! Chicago won. All the reasons why have never been made public—never will be. The superior energy and stronger public spirit of Chicago were quickly manifested. While the easy going New Yorkers were giving dinners to congressmen hustling Chicago had its men in every state in the Union, working boards of trade, legislatures, railway corporations, public sentiment—controlling the influences which controlled congressmen.

AS IT WAS IN 1891.

Then not many people appreciated the significance of that decision of congress. Now everyone appreciates it. Chicago's victory was the victory of the Mississippi valley, the interior and the farther west. It moved the actual center of the country two hundred and fifty miles to the west at one fell swoop. It pushed Chicago ahead twenty five years at a bound. Today Chicago is the first city of the world. All this summer she will be the first city of America. After this year she will fall back beside her great and only rival, and the future race between New York and Chicago will be at hot pace.

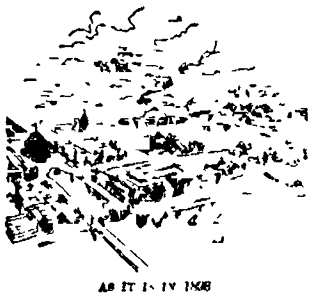
As I look over this throng, gathered for the supreme moment in the most magnificent spot of the exposition, I see scores of Chicagoans who have devoted their energies for two years or more to the cause of the fair. They are proud and happy now as they have a right to be. Nothing in this world but love is sweeter than triumph and love is triumph itself. But there have been times during the past twenty months, in which many of these men, and nearly all men in Chicago, have said they were sorry New York did not beat them in congress. At the same time New York chuckled and pretended to congratulate itself upon its escape. Neither expression was sincere.

Chicago has had her troubles, and at times the outlook has been very dark, indeed. But there was never any surrender, never any cessation of effort. As the human acre in the center of this wonderful scene, this culmination of the struggle, this victory shouts with joy after the pressing of the mighty button my thoughts still run to the hours and days of the busy past.

It has been a series of tableaux. Only three years and two months ago it was that we had in congress the memorable scene of Chicago's victory over New York. A month later Chicago was brought face to face with the serious side of her undertaking. Bitterness erupted in her stockholders' meetings. Dissension disruption were threatened. One ringing voice that of a little man no bigger than the finger of the statue of the republic which stands in the basin yonder facing Grover Cleveland—Thomas B. Bryan—quelled the storm. "The eyes of the world are upon you," he shouted. "Be men!" Those words have been ringing in Chicago's ears ever since. They quelled many more storms.

Then the conflict, the inevitable conflict about the site. This was raged long and bitter. Predictions were made that Chicago would fall in an epileptic riot result of too much pressure between rival sections of the city, and that the fair would perish. It was the autumn of 1890 before the site was finally chosen—wisely chosen as the most zealous advocates of other locations now admit.

The Illinois legislature was not going to pass a law enabling the city of Chicago to issue bonds in aid of the fair, and the people wouldn't vote the bonds, anyway. So said the pessimists. Without municipal aid Chicago couldn't raise the money and the whole enterprise was going to the dogs. In sixty days the bonds were sold in the money market. All predictions and cavillings that Chicago couldn't raise the ten millions of dollars required of her by congress thus came to naught.



AS IT IS IN 1893.

Before the enterprise was fully on its feet another danger, the greatest danger of all, appeared. Congress had created a national commission and recognized a local board of directors. The inevitable conflict between them arose. More bitterness, doubt, contention, darkness. So great was the tension that one or two of the Chicago papers began to throw out hints of abandoning the enterprise. Eastern papers were not slow to act on this hint, and soon it became a mooted question not only in this country but in Europe whether there would be a fair or not. Indeed, it was at one time generally believed in Europe that the Chicago people had confessed the task to be too great for them and given up the job. They did not know Chicago!

This difficulty was finally adjusted. Then it became necessary to disabuse the world of the notion that there was to be failure in Chicago. A score of men were sent traveling through Central and Southern America to secure governmental co-operation and private exhibits. Other agents were sent to Asia and to Africa. A commission of prominent [illegible] traveled all through Europe, and turned toward the fair the tide of continental opinion that had been running strongly away from it.

Two years ago this marvelous spot on which we stand today was a mud hole. Big dredges were at work scooping out lakes and using the earth thus acquired for the construction of islands and building sites in the swamp. A year ago I stood right here and saw one half-finished building, four or five with complete foundations, a dozen more existing only on the map or in piles of material. The transformation that has come over this scene in the short space of one year is the most sublime thing I have perceived in this whole enterprise. It is a thing which cannot be described and which must go forever unreal except by those who saw it. If some photographer had had the wit to prepare a series of views illustrative of the rise in two years of this city of palaces on its mud-hole site, he might have made his fortune with it. The pyramids, St. Gothard, St. Petersburg, Suez, Pacific railroad, were memorable examples of the power of organized human energy. Greater, far greater than any of these, considering the time employed, is the achievement of which to-day is the climax.

Three years ago Chicago shouting in the capitol at Washington.

Two years ago dredging and scooping as if she were constructing a canal.

One year ago laying broad acres of floors and contracting for more work atop them than she had money in sight to pay with.

To-day, the world at her feet!

How will Chicago come out financially? Don't worry. Chicago will attend to that. But do not forget that she did this. When a ten million dollar fair was perceived to be too small she went ahead and made it a twenty million dollar fair, regardless of consequences. She bonded and borrowed and turned corners and even conquered in small [illegible] a congress which all the experts thought was unconquerable. She modified none of her plans on account of expense, but rather enlarged them and spent more. This was nerve. It was courage. It deserves its reward.

No American stands in this great presence today and views this majestic opening without feeling proud of Chicago and of his country.

FREE EXCURSION TO DENVER

The May Shoe and Clothing Company Have Entered the Rate War

The May Shoe and Clothing Company of Denver have taken advantage of the present chaotic state of affairs on the Rio Grande and Midland railroads and have made the offer to send their customers to Denver free. They issue the following card:

DENVER May 1st 1893

To the people of Colorado Springs:

From this date and during the time the present rate is in force on the Denver and Rio Grande and Midland railroads, we will refund the price of railroad ticket from any competitive point involved in the war to any party purchasing goods to the amount of $1[illegible] or more in our store.

We already have the lowest price on men's and boys outfits and shoes for everyone, and this is a bona fide reduction.

Sincerely,
THE MAY SHOE AND CLOTHING CO
1612-1628 Larimer St.

New York Stock Market.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Money on call has been easy, ranging from 2 to 3 per cent; last loan 3, and offered at 4 per cent.

The sales of listed stocks today aggregated [illegible] shares and of unlisted stocks 12,[illegible] shares.

This has been a day of great excitement and depression at the Stock Exchange. The [illegible] reached the large total of [illegible] shares, liquidations having been on a more extensive scale than for a long time. There was nothing in the way of news to affect prices adversely. Sterling exchange was easier and gold exports by Saturday's steamers are still in doubt. Money was also in better supply to the stock exchange brokers and rates of interest declined under increased offerings by the banks and other lenders. The heavy selling of stocks is attributable almost entirely to the exhaustion of margins and the rumors affecting the credit of corporations and individuals. The only failure reported was that of A H Wheeler and this was of little [illegible] but the bears taking advantage of the demoralization started stories about the alleged embarrassment of leading operators and banks.

The most diligent search after the close of the exchange failed to corroborate the stories of impending trouble. There is no doubt, however, that many loans on the Industrials were called in and that some firms were forced to sell. Rallies in the market were frequent, but they counted for little cash and every recovery starting the selling movement afresh. The depression was most marked after delivery hour, 1 p. m. when there was absolutely no support to any quarter and prices dropped one or two points between sales. The market then was in a panicky condition and the board room was practically bedlam for a time. In the last fifteen minutes of business while [illegible] to cover shorts, prices rallied [illegible] per cent, but the market nevertheless closed weak and demoralized.

Sixty days exchange on London 4.8[illegible]; 4.86 sight drafts, 4.8[illegible]. Bar silver 84¼.

WHERE TO STOP IN CHICAGO

The perplexing question which is every day asked by people who desire to go to Chicago to see the World's Fair is: "Where are we going to stay when we get there?" This is easily answered. If you will go to the ticket agent of the Santa Fe, Mr F J Edwards at the depot or C C Hoyt at city ticket office he will tell you.

Arrangements have been made for the distribution by the Santa Fe company of a pamphlet entitled "Homes for Visitors to the World's Fair." This is a reliable pamphlet containing the names and addresses of about 9,000 families who will furnish accommodation to visitors from May 1st to October 31st 1893. The pamphlet also contains sectional maps which will enable the intending visitor to select any quarter of the city that he would prefer. Correspondence can then be carried on and definite arrangements made so that when visitors arrive in Chicago they can proceed at once to their quarters.

POINTERS FOR THE WORLD'S FAIR.

Footprints in the sands of time this year will all be turned toward Chicago where the great Columbian Exposition will be held.

While walking may be good, the great majority of Coloradoans will prefer riding on a solid Santa Fe route vestibuled train.

Luxurious palace sleeping cars, [illegible] dining service and free reclining chair cars. Better than the best of other lines.

Columbian limited leaves Denver 1.35 p m, Colorado Springs 4.22 p m, Pueblo 6.10 p m.

Denver and Chicago limited leaves Denver 6 p m, Colorado Springs 9.15 p m, Pueblo 11 p m.

Eastern express leaves Denver 11.05 p m, Colorado Springs 3.10 a m, Pueblo 4.05 a m.

Our rates will be as low as the lowest.

Drop in and talk it over with or write the nearest Santa Fe ticket agent.

This arrangement gives a convenient and rapid service into and out of Cripple Creek.

REDUCED RATES OVER THE COLORADO MIDLAND

The Colorado Midland Railway has more than set the ball rolling by cutting their rates more than half in two. The fare now stands to Buena Vista and Leadville $5, intermediate points between Leadville, Aspen and Glenwood $5 first class, and $3 second class. Grand Junction $10 first class and $8 second class. Tickets on sale at all Midland offices. This plan before you a rare opportunity to see the grand and wonderful scenery so famous on this line at very greatly reduced rates.

EARLY OPENING OF COLORADO SPRINGS TOURIST SEASON

The Colorado Midland Railway company announces that on May 1st it will open its summer tourist business with the following suburban train service:

Train No. 5 leaves Colorado Springs at 10 a m, stopping at all stations and arriving at Divide 11 [illegible] a m, Florissant 10[illegible] a m. Train No. [illegible] will continue to run as at present.

Returning, Train No. 6 will leave Florissant 1[illegible] a m, Divide 11.10, stopping at Woodland Park [illegible] and arrive Colorado Springs 1.10 p m.

There will be no change in Train No. 4, arriving at Colorado Springs from the west at [illegible] p m.

Cripple Creek passengers will now be able to leave Colorado Springs after breakfast and arrive at Cripple Creek before [illegible] o'clock, and returning from Cripple Creek they can leave there on the stage coaches at [illegible] o'clock a m and be at Colorado Springs at [illegible] o'clock.
